'All Gone' Declares 17-Year-Old Survivor

Tragic story of how his shipmates were lost in the sinking of the tugboat George McGregor was told today by the lone survivor, 17-year-old Gerry Anderson.

The husky Esquimalt youth spoke in low mumbled tones from his bed at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Anderson, 914 Selkirk Avenue.

He is suffering from severe shock, exposure, and leg abrasions.

"They're all gone," the young deckhand choked. "The cold was too much for them. . . ."

He said the mate, Bill Hunter and the cook, Alf Matthews, went down with the tug when the 101-ton vessel sank stern-first. The other four members of the crew couldn't keep hold of the tug's upturned lifeboat which brought him in to Cadboro Bay, Anderson said.

One Survivor In Disaster Off Trial Is.

By ALLAN JENKINS

Six Victorians are missing and believed drowned following the capsizing and sinking of the Victoria Tug Co.'s tugboat George McGregor off Trial Island at 4.30 this morning. There is only one known survivor.

Believed drowned are: Capt. John Mason, Lampson Street, master, A. Johannsen, Calumet Avenue, chief engineer. Leo Dobinson, 309 Montreal Street, second engineer. Bill Hunter, Tod Inlet, mate.

Harvey Reader, Colwood, seaman. A. Mathews, 2643 Blanshard Street, cook. Only survivor was G. Anderson, 914 Selkirk Avenue,

A telephone message to the Victoria Tug Co. offices at 8.30 this morning by an unidentified Ten Mile Point resident who was one of those to find Anderson, was the first word company officials had of the tragedy.

Anderson reached shore clinging to a dinghy. City police, B.C. police, Royal Canadian Navy authorities, the R.C.A.F. Air-Sea Rescue Services at Vancouver, Department of Transport officials and other tug companies in this district were notified and air-sea search was quickly set up in an attempt to find any possible survivors.

Area Searched By Planes

Searching the treacherous waters off Oak Bay for survivors re two R.C.N. auxiliary vessels, the tug Glendon and YC 4; the Island Navigator from Island Tug and Barge Ltd., an amphibious plane from Westinghouse Airways, and a Dakota plane from Air-Sea Rescue Headquarters at Vancouver.

Search is also being conducted on land for any sign of the lost tug's erew who may have reached shore. Lightkeeper Bill Copeland on Trial Island, only a short distance from where the George McGregor went down, was notified and immediately began a search of the whole island for any signs of the missing

The George McGregor was reported coming in light from Eamberton in Saanich Inlet and making passage on the outside of Trial Island through a flood tide, heavy south-easterly wind and consistent, driving rains when the tragedy occurred.

The lost vessel was a former U.S. Navy tug bought by Victoria Tug Co. two years ago for service on this coast. She had gross tonnage of 101.

The missing master, Capt. Mason, was a skipper of long service with the company and a war veteran with considerable army service.

Johannsen was an ex-flight lieutenant in the Royal Norwegian Air Force.

One Woman's Day FROM PIGS TO SOAP OPERA THE LOWLY PORKER—or maybe he is not so lowly in these days of high pork prices—has become quite an important figure in the news lately. Only the other day Britain was granted $12,000,000 in Marshall Plan funds to buy Canadian

And about the same time that this much-needed help to Britain in bringing home the bacon was announced, a little item in an English newspaper emphasized just how great the need over there is.

It seems that a county council food inspector was a bit suspicious of some sausages offered for sale in an Essex butcher's shop. So, in common with suspicious inspectors the world over, he decided to investigate and sent them to the analysts.

TOO MUCH MEAT WHEN THE SUCCULENT sausages were opened up, it was W found that they contained 50 per cent meat. So the manufacturer was warned he would have to change his methods. Now anyone who knew of Britain's wartime sausages, once described so deliciously by Leonard Brockington, K.C., as "breadcrumbs in battledress," may have thought that the said sages had carried too many breadcrumbs over into mufti-civil garb, that is. But not a bit of it. The manufacturer was told that there was far more meat in those Essex sausages than permitted by Ministry of Food regulations, and more breadcrumbs would

EXTRA CHOPS IT IS QUITE POSSIBLE that the news of that weird bit of socialization of sausage meat reached the capitalistic pigsties of the United States and made the pig population decide to do something about it before the breadcrumbs battled the

"chitterlings" right out of sausage skins. At any rate, word came a few days later from an experi-mental farm at Gray Summit, Mo., about a new American pig who has come equipped with two more ribs than the proverbial porker boasts.

Although he's still in the experimental stage, the revised version of a Yorkshire that the U.S. scientists have evolved so far already has two more pork chops than most breeds. And that's something in these days of prohibitive pork roasts, as any housewife will tell you. HOG HATCHERY

BUT THAT'S ONLY a starter. We are assured that the pig of tomorrow will produce half again as much lard, as well as turning out prime hams, lean bacon and more meat on the spareribs—which won't be so spare, either.

While Papa Pig is thus doing his share towards producing more food, Mama Pig will also be holding her end up—by producing more than the average two litters each year.

As might be expected, porkers who produce more piglets, ribs and chops will be more than a cut above their more humble cine brothers and sisters and will be treated accordingly. Not for them the old hog-wallow and swill. They will be born in a hog hatchery, provided with air conditioning in summer and radiant heat in winter.

SPEAKING OF SWILL also brings to my mind a discussion which took place on pigs in the House of Commons at Ottawa some months ago in the course of a debate on cattle as he said, wistfully—accused the soap operas of being largely responsible for hog cholera. Now, from my own reactions, I can well believe that "soap operas" might have a disastrous effect on humans subjected to an overdose, but I thought pigs at least were immune from radio-activity. The politician's plaint was that, thanks to radio advertising,

Canada's consumption of soap had increased to such an extent that more and more of it goes down into the garbage of hotels and restaurants which is later sold as swill. And the increased alkalinity leads to swine fever, it seems. All of which sounds like a silly symphony, with the squeaks of the plain pigs joining in a mounting crescende of feverish protest against swilling soapy swill, while the patrician porkers grunt their extra-ribbed way towards a grand finale of bigger

Guard Your Health As You Protect Your Home

Buying medicine from the itinerant peddler or the corner quack is a dangerous practice. Many people take medicine almost constantly although they do not need it at all. Many others take medicine entirely unsuited to the particular illness from which they suffer. Why take such unnecessary chances? Your health is your most valuable possession. When you are ill, see your physician. Then bring the prescription he hands you to us for compounding.

CLEARER THINKING

FOR SOME MONTHS FRENCH IN dustry has been making gains, and the general economy of that country is re Although the post-war years may have seen portedly in much better condition than it has been since the impact of war caused major upsets. The serious blows to recovery resulting from the great strikes of 1947 and 1948 have been surmounted. The Communistled attempts to create chaos through a wide. But worse things than lack of money can spread halting of industrial production have been turned back, and the Queuille government appeared to have achieved a stability that provided a satisfactory political background for further progress. Recently, howthe middle-of-the-road regime that had ruled for a year was overthrown by inner dissension arising from the question the wage ceiling against further raises, which would endanger the cost-of-living structure so precariously created, were opposed by those who heard loudly the call of labor for a larger income.

Thus it was that yesterday's 24-hour general strike in France-called by the Communist-dominated unions—could have taken on the importance of a country-wide demand for wage increases and have had serious political—as well as economic—repercussions. For one thing, it could have been interpreted as a strategical victory for the Communists, with all the implications to be derived from such an occurence. The facts. however, were otherwise. Press reports tell how "hundreds of thousands" of workers defied their union leaders' orders and turned up for work. Although dislocation of public services occurred, and production was lowered, there was nothing like the response for which the instigators had hoped. French officials, in fact, hailed the incident as the "biggest postwar defeat for Communist and Socialist labor."

It would seem that the French workingman and woman, however, much they ma desire higher wages, have become appre ciative of the national aspect of the prob lem, and do not feel inclined to follow leadership toward dubious goals at the expense of their country's recovery. Cabinet leaders should now feel encouraged to continue their struggle to achieve a united policy. The spectres of Communism, on the one hand, and of extreme rightism, on the other, would seem to have been pushed a little farther into the shadows.

LESSON FROM LILIENTHAL

THE RESIGNATION THIS WEEK OF Mr. David E. Lilienthal from his post of leadership on the United States Atomic Energy Commission, coupled with the brief remarks of Dean C. J. Mackenzie. head of Canada's National Research Council, on the secrecy with which atomic research is surrounded, may well provoke serious thought among our people. Dean Mackenzie informed Parliament that:

"The tendency we must fight against is to carry the secrecy necessary in wartime over into peacetime research."

To this he added the statement that scientists at the Chalk River research plant would be "very happy" if all secrecy were eliminated, but that did not mean necessarily that other considerations of policy did not exist which made some secrecy provisions still essential.

Whether or not the depressing cloak of determining factor in persuading Mr. Lilienthal to leave his post must, for the moment, be left in the realms of speculation. Certainly the distinguished American had other cause to resign. From the time of his appointment, almost three years ago, he has been the subject of badgering attack by political interests which have been soundly berated by both ican and Democratic publications in the United States. His reputation has been preserved. His definition of democracy-a satisfying, affirmative doctrine-has been inscribed in the Congressional Record following its presentation in defence against amunist inclinations attributed to him. David Lilienthal, in the eyes of most Canadians, is a democratic figure of some stature. Yet he has decided to leave his important post.

The decision of this outstanding United States citizen indicates the manner in which warmed the wall with its blanket of varying highly valuable public servants can be lost. he remarks of Dean Mackenzie suggest a but a tracery of interwoven vines resembling measure of the discomfort under which our the wire framework of an old wreath. Only atomic acientists now labor. The field in the evergreen shrubs, squat and huddled in which they work is so important that they must practice caution far in excess of that nials hold their foliage. The deciduous required from the ordinary citizen. The more scientific position—a position in which cades of fall, point starkly to the sky, sugthey will be able to share their findings gesting the appeal of former days only in with men of like mind in other countries, the rich colorings of bark and the symmetry and in which they will be relieved of the of a native geometry. tension of keeping quiet lest they say some thing that may leave them open to discrediting charges—can be easily understood.

Dean Mackenzie has noted the necessity of observing "considerations of policy" regulting secrecy. At the same time, the pleasanter breezes blow, and spring again Lillenthal resignation underscores the fact unfurls their sails for the journey through that burdens arising from association with the growing season.

a vitally important job can become intoler able. It behooves Canadians, under the circumstances, to see that no unfair criticism or no unjust interference with a man's life or thoughts, should be permitted against the individuals who are doing such fine work at Chalk River. We, in this cocannot permit the development of a Canadian variety of the psychology evolved by special pleaders and the more extremis factions in our neighbor's Un-American Activities Committee.

NOT GOOD ENOUGH

NO ONE WHO HAD LIVED IN NOVA Scotia for any length of time would deny that in some respects the school sys tem of that province had fallen far short of what might be expected in Canada. some improvement, the Halifax newspapers were formerly wont to publicize, through photographs and articles, the impoverished conditions of some school areas and the lack of educational facilities that resulted. afflict a community, and a Canadian Press dispatch from Maroon Hill, a few miles from Halifax, gives point to the observa

Ostensibly designed to provide praise for the efforts of a woman who for seven years has voluntarily operated in her ho school for negro children, the article neverof a national wage policy. Attempts to hold theless discloses a shocking situation which denies these children attendance at the public school only a few yards away. Describing the difficulties of the self-appointed teacher in conducting classes of grades within the confines of her dwelling. the article comments: "Just why the negro children of the area were not admitted to the public school has never been explained."

> We suggest that this is something that should receive an explanation without further delay-and not only an explanation but immediate remedial action. Not only are the colored children of Maroon Hill being deprived of the educational facilities they should enjoy as citizens of this Domin ion, but the white children of the community are equally being deprived of the Canadian right to grow up in an atmosphere free from such obvious impositions of racial prejudice. What sort of Canadian ism can come out of Maroon Hill under the conditions described in The Canadian Press report is difficult to imagine. The Province of Nova Scotia, which boasts many honor able "firsts" in the history of Canada, might well enquire.

ANNIVERSARY OF A BRIDGE

THE HIGH-LEVEL HIGHWAY bridge across the Fraser that appro-priately honors T. D. Pattullo. Premier of honors T. D. Pattullo, Premier of B.C. at the time of its construction, passed its 12th birthday last Tuesday, statisticians estimated 30,000,000 vehicle crossings had been made over it since the day of opening. With few exceptions the drivers paid tolls that averaged 13 cents a crossing, but for some time the revenue fell below require-

Observation of the birthday this week, however, provides the occasion to note a more optimistic outlook. Last year, reve nues amounted in round figures to $600,000. Other recent returns, though not uniform in their gains, have indicated strongly the posibility of wiping out arrears in debt payments and interest by the end of next year. Moreover, the likelihood of paying off the entire capital outlay, which the government listed originally at $4,000,000, coupled with current interest, is not remote in the next 10 years.

When the debt is discharged, an important question of policy will arise relative to tolls. It centres on the advisability of maintaining the charges at a level not only sufficient to meet maintenance, but to create a fund for the construction of expanded facilities should traffic in the eral times in previous articles. And the desirability of creating a fund for an analogous project in years to come has at least one definite merit: Money collected in advance can earn interest for the government until it is used, whereas money borrowed for such projects costs the taxpayers of British Columbia very considerable sums in debt carrying charges, sums which free quently equal actual principal borrowed.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP from Washington

A MAGIC WORD

SINCE Secretary of State Dean Acheson and E.C.A. chief Paul Hoffman returned from their respective trips to Europe, it has become increasingly clear that American policy in Europe revolves about one magic word. This word is "integration." And it is about time to inquire what this word really means to Acheson, Hoffman, and the other American policy-

A groper through the fog which more and more obscures American foreign policy soon discovers that "integration" is the wrong word. To integrate, according to the dictionary, means "to unite or become united so as to form a more complete or perfect whole," which would suggest that the U.S. is trying to create a United States of Europe overnight.

IN FACT, what Acheson and Hoffman are trying to promote is nothing of the sort. The real objective, as one of the authors of the integration project put it, is "to get back to 1910 by 1952." What the United States wants is a Europe whose internal trading relationships are as close as possible to those which existed before the First World War.

In brief, it is now the major aim of American policy in Europe to eliminate currency controls and export and import restrictions. Ultimately what is wanted is real economic union, with tariffs eliminated and a central banking system and a common currency created. But all concerned agree that for the forseeable future this real "integration" is no more than a distant dream.

THIS apparently rather modest but in fact enormously difficult project for turning the clock back to happier days is envisaged as taking place in a series of stages. In the first stage, there would be three separate groups of "integrated" states-France and Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg, and the three Scandinavian countries. The first five countries would then be joined, to form "Fritalux." The Scandinavians would then probably be brought into Fritalux. And finally, Western Germany would be added, to make one big, relatively free of a Department of Citizenship and Immigration. These two Britain (to the great relief of the British leaders) is not being pressed to become an active participant in this Acheson-Hoffman project. But while they were in Europe, Acheson and Hoffman politely but firmly urged British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps to give the scheme couragement and support." Bevin and Cripps rather reluctantly agreed. The chief British contribution is expected to be firm military and political commitments to France, to balance French fears of a revived Germany.

SINCE this project now clearly has first priority in American foreign policy, it is deeply important to ask not only what His Majesty to undertake a jour- it is expected to accomplish, but also what ney which might imperil his health. But when his health believe that in the long run—the very long run-"integration" will strengthen the economics of Western Europe, and make the continent less dependent on the United States. A more immediate important political objective is to tie the rapidly-reviving Western German economy firmly into that There remains a strategical of the confinent, and thus prevent Germany eason why Franco Spain cannot from turning again against the West.

These are highly commendable aims, But it is necessary to examine the other side of the coin. In Europe, two facts stand out like large, sore, sinister thumbs. The sion in Franco's favor the French

SHOULD BE REMEDIED

"The lack of the third," the Marconi brief said, "is a matter which must be remedied if the stresses in the present structure are to be relieved and progress nade possible."

(Establishment of a regulatory authority separate from CBC was advocated in an earlier sub-mission by the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, repre senting most of the privately-owned stations.)

ELEVEN BRIEFS

The commission devoted most of the day to hearing submissions dealing exclusively with radio. Eleven such briefs were offered.

One of the commission's terms of reference requires it to study "the principles upon which the policy of Canada should be based, in the fields of radio and tele-vision broadcasting." Radio, with private enterprise lined up against public ownership, has become the hottest issue before

The CBC made its first submission of the commission's four day hearing here when Marcel Quimet, director of the French network, said the services of the network could be easily improved and extended "with more money and more specialist employees."

Plenty Of Sheep But Few Shepherds

VANCOUVER (CP) - The onely life of a British Columbia shepherd apparently doesn't appeal to modern youth-or any one else.

William Harrison of Kamloops B.C., former president of the B.C. Sheep Breeder's Association, here for a conference of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, said in an interview Friday that sheep-raising is on the decline because of a lack of help.

"Old herders are dying off. I don't know if the industry will carry on in B.C."

He said they had invited shepherds from as far afield as Spain, but none had arrived yet. He has given up his own range herd because he "can't get around so well."

He added that it was unfortunate the industry should be going downlill now because "prices have never been better and we can sell everything we have in wool and meat."

Clifford M. Woods, 211 Wilson Street, was remanded to Dec. 19 for trial on two driving charges in city police court. He is charged with dangerous driving and for driving while his license is under

Farmers Ask Vote In Daylight Saving

VANCOUVER (CP) - Five o'clock daylight saving time is still 4 o'clock cow time and British Columbia farmers are getting tired of trying to explain the difference to Bossie.

Those long summer evenings may be all right for city folk, but delegates to the B.C. Federation of Agriculture's 16th annual meeting here would rather do their chores in daylight.

The meeting Thursday decided to ask the provincial government to do two things.

1. Go off daylight time the day after Labor Day, wh children start back to school. 2. Hold a plebiscite on reten tion or abolition of the summer

Trouble is, the farmers said, neither the children nor the cows, nor the dew on the hay ripe for cutting, pay any attention to the clock.

The cows, it appears, have to be milked before breakfast, then the farmers have to wait an extra hour before they can start haying "when it's all wet with

Playoff To Decide Interhigh Junior Basketball Title

In a fast, rugged tilt, Victoria Reds captured the final High Reds captured the final Interhigh Junior Basketball League contest last night by handing Central Junior High its first defeat of the season, 39 to 22, to force a three-way tie for the loop title. A playoff be-tween the two squads and the Vic High Golds will take place

Led by Len Anderson, winners opened on the right foot in the slow first quarter to gain a 6 to 2 margin at the whistle. The pace quickened in the second quarter with Vic High out-scoring Central by a single point to gain a 15 to 10 half-time lead.

Play was even faster in the rugged second half, as the squads fought tooth and nail for the decision. Feature of the final half was the uncanny accuracy dis-played by Red's Norm Forbes. He pumped through 15 points the two quarters to lead his

IMPORTANT PUBLIC MEETING The Victoria Citizens' Temperance Association announce a public meeting in Metropolitan Church, MONDAY evening at 8. REV. AUBREY SMALL, Speake

SPECIAL NOTICE

The writer has received a personal letter from Rev. Philip Carrington, Anglican Archbishop of Quebec, in which he is informed that the Archbishop did not make the statement Sunday is not Holy" at the time of reportedly making the statement. "Nowhere in the Bible is it laid down that worship should be done on Sunday." In my advertisement on the church page of the Victoria Daily Times of Nov. 5, I attributed the statement "Sunday is not Holy" to Rev. Philip Carrington It was not my intention to misquote or misrepresent, and therefore wish to correct the impression conveyed by my advertisement which was based on news items.

It is a fact that I do agree with the statements that were reported to have been made by Archbishop Carrington, "No where in the Bible is it laid down that worship should be done on Sunday" and "The Bible commandment says, on the seventh day thou shalt rest. That is Saturday." Copies of the address given in the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, as advertised on November 5, may be secured by addressing the pastor of the church at the corner of Pandora Avenue and Vancouver Street. HUGH. J. CAMPBELL.

THE STORY: Patience Mond goes to London three times a week to attend dress making school. It is the only freedom allowed her by the two old-fashioned aunts who have brought her up and with whom she lives in the country. She always returns home on the six-thirty. Paul Taylor takes the same train and for some time now has been trying to pick her up. But Patience is too proper to talk to a strange young man.
One evening, an accident halts the train about a mile from her station. Paul offers to walk her there, so she won't be too late getting home, and she accepts." He asks her to meet him at nearby Stortford the follow-ing Saturday for tea and movies. She tells him her aunts would never allow it.

Fate intervenes, however, when Aunt Helen asks Patience to go into Stortford that very Saturday to change a library book. Paul meets her at the station. They have a wonderful time. Patience tells Paul she has a twin sister whom she hasn't seen since childhood. When he puts her on the

"Eight! But Patience isn't in!"

"I know." Miss Alice looked at her sister anxiously. "I suppose she must have missed the tram."

Miss Helen said shortly that this was obviously what had happened. And then that it was really very naughty of her. "I suppose we can all of us miss trains," said Alice placatingly. "What's worryisg me is that there isn't another one she can catch till that very late one that reaches Oakley a. 11 o'clock. "I must say I don't like her being out so late. In Mact I'm really very angry about it."

Smith Wanted Victoria Pianist Enjoyed Visit To Warsaw

"I'VE NEVER SEEN anything like it. The people were up and down, shouting and cheering for minutes. I was recalled five times!" It is Robin Wood writing of his experiences in the Chopin competitions at Warsaw, in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Wood, Bewdley Avenue, Esquimalt. Having recently quoted the impressions of a Seattle planist in the same contest, it is with more than ordinary interest that we compare Robin's report, finding it at times affirmative, at others contrary.

On the whole, Robin seems to have had a much pleasanter ex-perience than Mr. Lundquist, al-though he too discovered that the contest, was not "on the level." Following the account of his reception at Warsaw's concert hall, the Roma, which ac-commodates an audience of 2,000 Robin goes on to say that his was recorded and rebroadcast that evening with the comment from the announcer that it was the finest perform-ance of the day.

"Everything was fixed before-hand," he admitted. "There was plenty of skulduggery. Not even Horowitz could have got into those finals."

First prize went equally to a Russian and a Polish girl; second prize to a Russian, Robin reports.

THE POLISH SOCIETY of Arts and Letters selected Robin "Two pounds! That's not enough," said the Jew, "but seeing you are a new customer, I vill let you haf it for three pounds."

Well-Known Victorians Played On Amateur Teams; Olson's Revival

IN "FACE OFF" I have set down the part Victoria played in the Hockey Parade as far as the professionals were concerned. The story would not be complete, however, without some reference to the amateurs and also the steps taken by different groups to revive the fascinating winter sport after the destruction of the Patrick Arena by fire in 1929.

First let's look at the develop ment of amateur hockey which almost delivered the Allan Cup, emblematic of the senior cham-pionship in Canada, into our lap.

When professional hockey was ushered in here back in 1912 the amateurs came bobbing up for recognition. The following year they had a three-team league. B.C. Telephone was league. B.C. Telephone was coached by Skinner Poulin and the Y.M.C.A. had their favorite Walter Smaill, as coach. Both Poulin and Smaill were members of the Victoria Senators, the pro club. The third team was Victoria City.

One of the outstanding players of that period was the late Au-brey Archibald. During service in France during the First World War he lost the sight of both eyes. On his return home he took in all the hockey games and saw them through the eyes

IT IS interesting to look over some of the players of that day as they are active in our community at present. His room-mate turned out to be a moody youth named Paul, son of a stern father with whom he was on hostile terms. It seems that the old gentleman, a manufacturer of bustles and girdles in Baltimore, had started with nothing, and made himself a fortune. Never having been to college, he scorned the higher education. Only his wife's social ambitions had induced him to send Paul to the university.

Even in those days, a dollar a week spending money wasn't much for a college boy and that was all the income Paul was allowed; it wasn't strange that he ran into debt. My Three Years In Moscow

Soviet Culture Is Made To Toe The Party Line

By Lt.-Gen. Walter Bedell Smith Installments 19 and 20

ETO NYE KULTURNO is a phase one hears often in Moscow, especially among earnest young Communists, Literally the Russian phrase means "that isn't cultured," and it has a variety of applications to de-scribe widely varying acts and objects. It is equally applicable when reference is made to the rude behaviour of an uneducated person or to the poor quality of

This is a valid form of self-This is a valid form of self-criticism, reflecting a genuine desire for self-improvement and a craving for culture that has become almost a national obsession with the Soviet people.

From the very beginnings of the Soviet state, the Communist leadership recognized the equal need for a cultural revolution to

Once, in analyzing the weaknesses that had caused the down-fall of Czarist Russia, Stalin "backwardness" in five major fields of endeavor, and, of these, the cultural deficiency was mentioned only after mili-tary weakness but ahead of political, industrial and agricultural shortcomings.

Men In A Hurry

WE ARE 50 OR A 100 years behind the advanced countries," Stalin had said. "We must make good this lag in 10 years. Either we do it or they cfush us."

Hurry, hurry, hurry! - this was Stalin's exhortation to the Soviet people whether they were building a steel mill, composing a symphony, harvesting a wheat crop, writing a book, constructing a hydro-electric dam, performing in a drama or

The same source said that prerevolutionary public libraries in Russia had only 640 books per 10,000 residents, while in 1938 there were 8,610 books for each 10,000 persons.

Theatre Is Good

THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT has retained and encourage the beautiful and the esthetic in the arts, and many of the stand ards established by the Soviet authorities in the opera, ballet and non-propaganda radio programs generally are higher than our public demands.

The ballets of Moscow and Leningrad are the best in the world, and the legitimate theatre is very good indeed when it is not being used primarily for propaganda purposes.

The state sees to it that musicians can compose and play, writers can write and artists can paint in comfortable circumstances, because the government is well aware that the task of raising the cultural level of the Sopeoples to that of most of their European neighbors still is

Overstated Case

IN MY OPINION, Mr. Ehrenburg overstated the case for Soviet culture and underestimatural understanding.

Although Stalin cannot be classified as one of the pre-re-volutionary intellectuals, as were Lenin and many of his close supporters, it is obvious that he appreciates fully the dangers that uncontrolled erudition would represent to an authori-

The campaign has progressed vith increasing intensity during he last three years.

Why so herculean an effort to urb intellectual thought and cut off all cultural pursuits from the outside world? Will this not stifle development? Is not such a policy short-sighted, particu-larly at a time when the Soviet Union has grown greatly in stature and prestige? These were questions the Westerners in Moscow asked. According to this "scientific" discovery of Marx, all progress is brought about by oppos forces, a struggle between the old and the new, between that which is dying away and that which is being born in a transformation of quantitative and qualitative changes.

Since this theory is immutable, all proven scientific laws, ideas and concepts that do not fit the theory must be changed or brought into line or the whole dation of the Soviet regime will crumble.

Story Of Bomb Plot

A former Canadian war corresponden in Europe, A. C. Cummings, concludes today the dramatic story of the Hitler Bomb Plot. When Von Stauffenberg, the chosen assassin, saw his bomb ex-plode and then watched Hitler being removed on a stretcher, he did not wai removed on a stretcher, he did not wait to confirm that the Fuehrer was dead. Instead he set the machinery or revolt into operation, with the dreadful re-sults described in this article. Nearly 5,000 Germans, innocent and guilty alike, went to a gory death—all be-cause an inconsequential major of a Berlin army battalion queried an order.

Think About Your New Garden

DURING THE PAST SEASON, a large number of letters, asking for information on how to plant home sites, varying in size from an acre to a city lot, have been received. IT USED to be a commo to speak of whales as fish, but this is seldom done nowadays. Whales are warm-blooded rimals, and they are classes properly among the mammals.

Whales breathe air, and are without gills. Fish, on the other hand, have gills with which they take oxygen from water. scales are to be found on the odies of whales.
Instead of having tails which spread out up-and-down, after the manner of fish, whales have tails which spread out sidewise. There are many kinds of whales, and I shall speak of only one large kind today—the blue whale—along with the so-

Cross River Problem

L'OR WORKING out this version of a famous brainteaser you will need three pennies and three nickels, or three red cards and three black cards. For purposes of this explanation, we'll suppose you're using cards.

The red cards represent three explorers who have arrived at the bank of a deep stream in a South American jungle with three members of a savage tribe addicted to using poison blow-guns on strangers when the lat-ter are unwary. The only trans-port at hand is a dugout that will carry no more than two persons. So the explorers have the problem of getting them-selves and their savage companions across in this, without allowing more savages than ex-plorers to be on either side of the stream at any time, even for an instant.

Since the dugout holds only two, one man must, of course row it back after each trip until all are across. However, if necessary, two men can return.

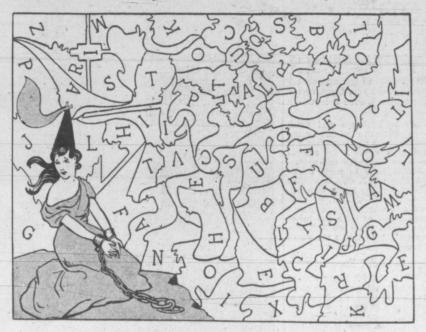

Remember there can't be more savages than explorers on either side at any time. That means that if you have one savage unaccompanied by an explorer on ne side, an explorer and savage can't cross over to that side to-gether, for at the instant the poat lands, the explorer would be out-numbered.

The same holds true, naturally, if you had two unaccompanies savages on one side.

You can have one or more savages on a side, for he or they wouldn't run off while a fellow tribesman was in the explorers

Now get out your cards and put on your thinking cap. After you've worked it out, try it on your friends at the next party.

It Was Not Just Luck That Won This Hand

THE NATIONAL PRESS CLUB in Washington is one of the most colorful clubs in the country. Among its members are the men who give us tomorrow's news These newspaper writers actually must try to out-think the thinkers of the nation.

I pulled up a chair there the other day. I did not know any one at the table, nor did they know me. The hand I saw, to day's hand, really set me thinking.

The scientific player would tricks and say, I have two spade tricks and four club tricks. That is only six. The ace of diamonds makes seven. Where will I get the other two? It looks like the diamond suit must be set up. So the average player would go over to the queen of clubs, take the diamond finesse and hope it works. Of course it does not. East leads back the queen of hearts and the defenders cash five heart tricks. But time for relaxation is too short for the boys at the Press Club to worry about scientific play. When declarer won the opening lead of the queen of spades with the king, he looked over at his left-hand opponent and smiled, obviously because he was glad that a heart had not been led. Now this fellow lost no time in planking down the ace of diamonds, take four club tricks and the ace of spades, and hope that the ace of hearts was right. that the ace of hearts was right.

Of course when the diamond right. king was dropped, he made 12 tricks. And did he give the ha-ha told the little fellow who laid to the boys who could have down his ace of diamonds that to the boys who could have down his ace of diamonds that cashed the first five heart tricks! he was just lucky, but I say he So far as the scientific play played the hand correctly.

is concerned, North knows that if the ace of hearts is in the West hand, he must keep East from getting into the lead. He is perfectly willing to lose a diamond trick if East has the ace of hearts. But if by chance the diamond king is a singleton, the correct play is to lead the ace, hoping to drop the king. If it does not work, declarer still can

JOHN R. CRAWFORD of Philadelphia, Pa., whom I interview each week to bring you the latest points of play in Canasta, had the pleasure of playing a game against Pancho Segura, the tennis star from South America, where Canasta originated,

During the match Mr. Craw- | separate meld of three queens ford's partner repeatedly asked the question, "May I go out?" other three queens on the table, and each time Crawford said, Were they right? 'No." I asked him today to tell

Most players, said Crawford, are too anxious to go out. The bonus for going out is only 100 points. In the game mentioned, Crawford and his partner would know I am forced to discard know I am forced to discard. Crawford and his partner would lose very little even if the opponents did go out. As it happened, by continually refusing his partner's request for permission to go out, Crawford built up a score of 2,300 points. This certainly offset any small losses they might have had on succeeding hands by employing succeeding hands by employing the same tactics.

Watch The Score

JOHN CRAWFORD thinks one of the most difficult points of strategy to teach the beginner is

Answer: Let us say that you are 4,200 points on the score at the start of a hand. You need 120 for initial meld and you are fortunate enough to get it early.

Answer: No. Unfortunate enough to get it early.

Answer: No. Unfortunate enough to get it early. You get a mixed canasta, bringing your score up to 4,500. You have a red trey, making your score 4,600. In addition you have approximately 200 points melded. Now your partner says, "May I go out?" Seldom would the cor-

Canadian Stamps Bear O.H.M.S. As Overprint For First Time THE NEW CANADIAN "Office

ials" have just made their appearance. The fact that they have the initials "O.H.M.S." overprinted now ensures their listing in all the standard cataous issues with the same letterpunctured through the stamps never acquired catalogue status except in the Yvert and Tellier catalogue published in France, though they have been listed in a few specialists' hand-books on Canada.

Collectors who now have to open up a new section for these issues will almost be obliged to make a showing of the perforated varieties as they were cer-tainly the forerunners in this group. It is quite likely then that there will be a run on these earlier types, and the few who realized their possibilities at a time when most collectors ignored them will have cause to congratulate themselves on their foresight. For there is no doubt to go around, quite a few of them being rare.

As Tug Capsizes By ALLAN JENKINS

Planes and surface craft this afternoon are searching for survivors or bedies from the Victoria Tug Co.'s tug George McGregor, which capsized and sank off Trial Island early this morning.

On the scene are three local vessels, the Royal Canadian Naval Auxiliary craft, Glendon, and Y.C. 4 and the Island Navigator from Island Tug and Barge Ltd.

Air sweeps over a large area where the vessel foundered are being made by a plane from the R.C.A.F. Air-Sea Rescue Service at Vancouver and a plane from Westinghouse Airways.

On shore, watchers are keeping a sharp lookout for any of the six men who are believed to have perished. Only one man, Gerry Anderson, 17-year-old seaman, of 914 Selkirk Avenue, is known to have survived. Believed drowned are: Capt. John Mason, Lampson Street, master.

A. Johannsen, Calumet Avenue, chief engineer. Leo Dobinson, 309 Montreal Street, second engineer. Bill Hunter, Tod Inlet, mate. Harvey Reader, Colwood, seaman.

A Mathews, 2643 Blanshard Street, cook.

Telephone Call First Word

A telephone message to the Victoria Tug Co. offices at 8.30 this morning by an unidentified Ten Mile Point resident who was one of those to find Anderson, was the first word company officials had of the tragedy.

Anderson reached shore clinging to a dinghy. City police, B.C. police, Royal Canadian Navy authorities, the R.C.A.F. Air-Sea Rescue Services at Vancouver, Department of Transport officials and other tug companies in this district were notified and air-sea search was quickly set up in an attempt to find any possible survivors.

Lost Tug Coming In Light

The George McGregor was reported coming in light from Bamberton in Saanich Inlet and making passage on the outside of Trial Island through a flood tide, heavy south-easterly wind and consistent, driving rains when the tragedy occurred. The lost vessel was a former U.S. Navy tug bought by Vicwhen we cut out to round Trial Island and she started to roll toria Tug Co. two years ago for service on this coast. She had
